

ELECTION FOR ALL MAUI BOARD GETS FORMAL SANCTION

Attorney Bevins Holds Valley Island Supervisors All Re-elected at Primary

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
WAILUKU, May 24.—Acting on the opinion of County Attorney E. R. Bevins, the board of supervisors, at a special meeting to canvass the election returns of last Saturday's primary election, formally declared themselves all re-elected, as well as all the other county officials subject to the election.

The county attorney's opinion centered particularly upon the case of J. N. Uihluni, who through the official count lacked 49 votes of having a majority of the votes cast. The returns, however, showed that some 115 ballots had been thrown out by the judges in various precincts as being defective, but were clearly not defective in so far as the Molokai supervisor was concerned.

It was at first intended to carry the matter to the supreme court and ask for a ruling prior to the time of the general election, June 12, but after looking into the matter Attorney Bevins decided that the higher court had already passed upon the point two years ago, and advised the board accordingly.

Lyons' Move Next
In any event Uihluni was the only official in the county in which there was any question as to his election. He could have been compelled to stand for election at the time of the general election, with T. B. Lyons, Democrat, as his opponent. As things now stand it will be up to Lyons to upset the action of the board in declaring Uihluni elected, in case he does not agree with the opinion of the county attorney.

Cockett's Close Shave
It was not until the official count was completed that Pia Cockett's political fate was known for certain. And it remained for the final count to bring to light two ballots somehow previously overlooked, that his election was established. Before this the count had stood 958, or half a ballot less than half of the total ballots cast. One would have turned the trick. He received two. The total ballots cast was 1917.

Kalama Has Easy Victory
Last Saturday's primary election was a tame affair. There was scarcely any excitement and the crowd which gathered in front of the Maui News-Bulletin board was smaller and more apathetic than usual.

Sam Kalama polled nearly 4 to 1 votes for the chairmanship of the board against George Weight, receiving 1246 to Weight's 320.
W. E. Kane also won the county clerkship easily from Antonio Garcia, the vote standing 1061 to 473.
Sheriff Crowell, Auditor Chas. W. Cox, Attorney E. R. Bevins and Treasurer L. M. Baldwin each won without opposition.

The following is the vote of the 9 candidates for supervisor in the order of their standing:
D. T. Fleming 1115
R. A. Drummond 1063
Pia Cockett 950
J. N. Uihluni 916
Guy Goodness 676
T. B. Lyons (Democrat) 473
L. K. Kahalo 278
Joel Nakalea 195
Chas. Kaanohi 106
Total registered vote, 2613; total vote cast, 1917.

NEW ZEALANDERS ON WAY TO Y. M. HUTS AT FRONT

W. P. Lasselles, G. W. B. Hughes and A. M. Lasselles of New Zealand are in the city today. The three men are on their way to London, where they will enter the Y. M. C. A. service. The three secretaries represent the national committee of the Y. M. C. A. in New Zealand and will supervise the work at the front.

W. P. Lasselles has charge of the work in New Zealand, and Hughes will be supervising secretary, and the younger Lasselles, field secretary. The New Zealanders will go direct to Shakespeare hut, in London, where they will make their headquarters.
At this hut, according to Hughes, there are billiard tables, cafeterias, writing rooms and other features which appeal to the soldier. Many titled ladies of England visit this hut, and at one time the English queen passed out things to the boys at the hut. There are 26 secretaries from New Zealand now engaged in war work.

Hughes said that the 10 New Zealand secretaries now in France have a "great" between the trenches and the general headquarters where the men are given coffee and other nourishment after their stay in the trench. This work is done at an expense of $5000 each month.

"Conscription is working out very well in New Zealand," said Hughes. "There has hardly been a hitch and the New Zealanders have responded nobly. At present 35,000 out of a million population have gone to the front. The first division of conscription is expected to be called out by January 1, and then the married men will be called upon. There is very little sedition preached and it is immediately squelched."

NO AUTHORITY OVER SPECIAL OFFICERS, SAYS SHERIFF ROSE

"If I am to be held responsible for the individual acts of every special policeman in Honolulu I will certainly have my hands full," said Sheriff Rose today, referring to a story of alleged

TWO CALLS NEEDED TO GET AMBULANCE

Man at Police Station Stops to Argue While Injured Man is Unconscious

Residents and passersby in the vicinity of Punahou street and Wilder avenue at the corner of the Pleasanton hotel were thrown into a turmoil about 8 o'clock last night by a bloody encounter between Christian Ilsen and John Silva, both of whom the police eventually took to the police station.

According to eye-witnesses the affair was a hand-to-hand, knock-down-and-drag-out affair in which Silva was knocked unconscious for about half an hour. Too much liquor on the part of both participants is said to have been the cause of the whole trouble.

Citizens of no less prominence than Ex-Governor W. F. Frear passing in autos took a hand and ran down and captured Ilsen after he had delivered the blow that felled Silva. As the latter fell his head struck the stone curbing and an ugly gash that bled freely was cut in the back of his head.

Silva was treated at the emergency hospital and Ilsen was locked up for safe keeping. This morning he was discharged because, according to the police, Silva declined to prefer charges, saying that both were drunk and that he hit Ilsen first.

Ambulance Not Started
Believing Silva's condition was serious and that the injured man might be dead or dying, witnesses to the assault sent a hurry-up call to the police station for the emergency ambulance. They state that after waiting about 15 minutes or ample time for the ambulance to arrive there was still no sign of it and they called again.

On this second call the officer on duty at the receiving station is alleged to have said that the ambulance had not yet started. It is also said that he bargained with his informant, saying that if the man with the injured man and acting generally as if he either did not care to despatch the ambulance to the scene or else was in no hurry.

Police Finally Arrive
The crowd gathered in the meantime and waited patiently. They wondered what was keeping the police. One citizen was holding Ilsen and others were doing what they could for the unconscious Silva. In another 15 minutes the police came.

"Why the man down at the receiving station should stop to argue with me in such a case when all indications were that it was serious, is beyond me," one of the eye-witnesses stated this morning. "I supposed the emergency ambulance was for just such cases. Even if I had been wrong it seems to me it would have been far better for the emergency people to have made a quick trip to the scene and found that I was wrong rather than to have dilly-dallied along and found the man had passed away while they were on the way."

Shows Promptness This Time
As an opposite case on the emergency ambulance a Star-Bulletin employee tells the story of a near-smash on King street, near Fort, this morning that was the result of speedy driving on the part of the ambulance man. It was learned later in the day that the ambulance was not on an emergency call but rather was transferring a patient. The driver was David Kamao.

According to the Star-Bulletin man a dray was backing out of the alleyway between the Kaukoelani building and as the Waikiki car going east approached Fort the ambulance put on a sudden burst of speed and spurred through the narrow margin of the dray and the street car in a wild effort to get ahead of the street car, which it did by the narrowest of margins but without striking the street car a sharp crack with the left rear wheel as it passed.

Kamao explains for his side, however, that he was ahead of the street car and when he saw the dray backing out behind an unruly team he had to speed up suddenly to evade being caught in a pinch by the approaching car.

GERMAN SEAMEN MAY BE PAROLED

Plans whereby the five alien German seamen taken from the American ship Gamble would be paroled are now under consideration by U. S. Attorney S. C. Huber.

Attorney Huber has authority to parole the seamen and says that, if conditions are favorable, this probably will be done. He now has two propositions in view relative to the disposal of the seamen, one being plantation work on the island of Maui. The German seamen have been confined in prison since their arrival here about a month ago. They were taken from the Gamble by federal officials acting on cable instructions from Washington, D. C.

misconduct on the part of a special policeman as reported by Morano, and published in yesterday's Star-Bulletin.

The sheriff says he has no authority or supervision over the majority of special policemen in Honolulu, a point which he has made several times when the acts of such officers are reflected upon his office.

"Most of the special officers are working without pay from the police department and have been given a special badge and commission upon request and recommendation of their employers to act as watchmen, guards, night patrolmen and so forth," the sheriff goes on. "I require a request and recommendation in writing from such employers and such special officers are answerable to their employers, not to me."

In stating his case the sheriff said that there were employees of both the Advertiser and the Star-Bulletin who carried special policemen badges but he did not believe that either paper would blame him for any misconduct of which these special officers might be guilty.

FROM YESTERDAY'S LAST EDITION

National Guard Mobilization Deferred

Governor Pinkham this afternoon made the following announcement: "The latest information from Washington indicates that the war department is deferring mobilization of the National Guard of Hawaii pending further determinations." What those "determinations" were he did not say.

A rumor was heard this afternoon that the national guard would not be mobilized but nothing could be learned as to its authenticity, and the governor's office declined to give out information further than the announcement above, the meaning of which is not fully apparent.

ANNAPOLIS CLASS TO GRADUATE YEAR EARLY
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24.—Announcement was made today that the present class of the Naval Academy, Annapolis, will be graduated on June 25, a year ahead of time, in order to provide additional officers for the fleet and submarine-chasers.

NATIONAL BASEBALL COMMISSION AGAINST "BEAN BALL"
CHICAGO, Ill., May 24.—The National Baseball Commission today took action against an old abuse in baseball in providing drastic punishment for any pitcher who uses the "bean ball"—that is, who throws the ball at the opposing batter's head in an effort to unnerve him or make him stand back from the plate. Expulsion from organized baseball is to be the penalty for any pitcher guilty of the practice.

HARBOR BOARD AFTER UNNATURAL ACCRETION OF LAND
Upon recommendation of its chairman, the harbor board this afternoon referred the matter of alleged "unnatural accretions" of land along the beach at Cassidy's and at Cressatt's to the attorney general, with the decision to condemn any land beyond the original mauka boundaries of such property found to be acquired by unnatural filling in of sand.

MAUI TURNING TO GARDENING IN REMARKABLE MANNER
News from Maui is that the Valley Isle has turned to gardening in a remarkable manner since the food emergency became apparent. It is said that a great crop of sweet potatoes is being cultivated and that several other crops will surpass all records. Within a few months this island will be producing an entirely unexpected amount of vegetables, say visitors from Maui.

ATTORNEY FOR ROENITZ PUTS ON DEFENSE
Nine persons from Pearl Harbor were summoned to testify on behalf of the defense during the further hearing this afternoon of the case of George Roenitz, former clerk to Capt. George R. Clark of the Pearl Harbor naval station, who is charged with espionage. It was expected that Roenitz might also be called as a witness this afternoon. It may take another day to complete the hearing.

HARBOR BOARD OPENS BIDS FOR PIER WORK
Three bids for the construction of a bulkhead retaining wall at Pier 2, Honolulu harbor, were opened at 2 o'clock this afternoon before the harbor commission as follows: John A. Hughes, $5775 with 40 working days; Harry S. Sands, $4867 and 27 days; Henry K. De Fries, $4555 and 33 days. For dredging between Piers 10 and 16 the Hawaiian Dredging Company submitted the only offer—$25,016 and 156 days, also 41.2 cents yard for hard material.

GENERAL PERMISSION TO MOVE BOATS REFUSED
The harbor commission this afternoon turned down a request of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company for general permission to operate vessels in the harbor after dark at such time as the company found necessary. The board decided, however, to inform the shipping company that requests for night sailings in specific instances could be made to the chairman, who would be authorized to act for the board and in conjunction with army and navy officials in the matter.

ALLEGED EVASION OF LIQUOR RULE BEFORE FOOD COMMISSION
Allegations that the "early closing" regulation adopted by the license commission and the saloons, hotels and clubs is being evaded were discussed at the food commission's meeting this morning and are to be looked into. It is alleged that in certain restaurants or cafes, sham meals are ordered so that the patrons may buy drinks, under the rule allowing such purchase in the evening. The food commission regards it as of prime importance that the regulation shall be carried out in a bona fide way, particularly as the saloons are living strictly up to their 7 o'clock closing agreement.

MME. MALMBERG WILL LECTURE ON WOMEN'S RIGHTS

"The Woman's Movement in Finland" is the subject of a lecture to be given by Madame Aimo Malmberg, under the auspices of the Honolulu College Club at the Young Women's Christian Association building this evening at 8 o'clock. It is stated that Madame Malmberg will waste no time in rehearsing the stock arguments for woman's rights, but will merely relate the history of the movement in Finland, where twenty-four women now sit in the national diet.

Each nation has its fundamental philosophy of women as revealed in the old sagas," said Madame Malmberg yesterday. "The philosophy of Finland is different from that of any other nation."

"The position of woman in Finnish society is due, first, to the extreme poverty of the country, and second, to its passionate patriotism. Because of the country's extreme poverty, woman's position is unknown, and married women are encouraged to use their talents not only in the home, but in wage earning as well. This passionate patriotism the Finns have in common with all northern peoples."

"The woman's movement began in Finland about a century ago with a demand for opportunity for higher education. This was followed about 1835 with a demand for political and other rights. The first suffrage society, however, was not organized until 1834, and was due to the profound influence of Ibsen upon the thinking of the people."

"During the six years of Russian oppression, 1899 to 1905, the woman's movement and many other positive

Bridging Your Wants

THE thing you want is on one side—price on the other—and running between the two are the waters of expense. When selling expense is great, the waters are wide—the article you want is a great distance from the price—and it takes a lot of money to connect the two.

NEARLY every day we, you, all of us, are greeted by the announcement of "another advance in prices" of this, that and other things—advances that come faster than our advances in income. Nearly everything we use is affected until, in fact, many have become disheartened.

BUT there are things which we want and that can be had at prices which we can afford. But where are they? Ah, that's the question—where are they? Well, just to satisfy yourselves, turn to the Classified Advertising in today's Star-Bulletin and there you will find much for sale and for rent that fit your needs and your pocketbook, too.
